PHOENIX GETS MORE GAMES OUT OF ITS RUNS THAN ANY OTHER TEAM

Figures in the official statistics on team batting and fielding indicate that the El Paso and Los Cruces teams, while well up in team batting, were not so strong in pinch hitting. Note the large number left on bases. In the batting figures, what a fast team can do with a few runs is indicated by the work of the Phoenix club, which, with only 29 runs, won more games than El Paso with 165 runs. It also indicates that the pitchers are a strong part of the Phoenix aggregation. El Paso is weakly weak in double plays and in work on the paths. The figures given below are for games up to and including May 23:

El Paso—Dudder, .457; Knight, .457; Bauer, .428; McGlynn, .407; Hayes, .398; Mathes, .381; J. Bliss, .383; Thompson, .376; Pendleton, .329.

Tucson—MacMurdoo, .423; Stroloff, .381; Cox, .355; Horton, .314; Galt, .267.

Phoenix—Pitman, .359; Dowling, .312; Nutt, .308.

Tucson yesterday did two things that haven't been done before in the history of the league. The Pablos administered the second successive defeat to the Dukes on their own field and batted a tailender to second place. The score, Tucson 4, Albuquerque 2. Horst pitched for Tucson and Jordan for the Dukes.

El Paso strengthened its hold on first place by beating Phoenix, incidentally kicking the Senators into the cellar.

The word has gone forth that unless the games are supported better by the public league baseball will cease in Albuquerque. The club is tottering financially, and more money will have to be provided if the fans and backers do not want to see it perish.

Gossip and Dope from Papers in League Cities

El Paso Times.
Tucson, in the opinion of the writer, has the snappiest and well-balanced club in the association, with possibly one exception. In the El Paso series the Old Pueblo team dropped three games through sheer hard luck, it seemed, although brilliant pitching by the El Paso twirler was really the cause. Jim Brown and Kitty Brashner have undoubtedly the youngest club in the league, and judging from their style of playing against El Paso, they should be able to make at least an even break with Albuquerque on the road. Fulwider and Horton are both classy, dependable twirlers, while Walter Slagle, the ex-Coast leaguer, is also a tower of strength to the team.

Composed entirely of fighters and not umpire batters, the El Paso team is one of the most aggressive sides that has been witnessed in action this season. Manager McCloskey fully realizes the folly of quarreling with the umpire and, with one or two exceptions, the El Paso team has never been known to ball the umpire. Whether ahead or behind they adhere to consistent, aggressive methods that nine times out of ten make a decided impression on the fans, who believe in clean baseball and pay their money to see that article.

El Paso Herald.
You can't always believe what you are told. Herb Hester and George Reed led Jim Brown to believe that the El Paso ball team was a weak aggregation. Jim says that it was costly information to find out that the Maskmen are about the best in the league. Incidentally, Brown is showing a lot of baseball sense in the way he is handling his team. As soon as a weak spot appears, Jim gets busy and lands a new player. And his team is not the most expensive in the league by a long shot.

Phoenix would like to adopt Reed. On two occasions last week he walked out on the field and told his players to quit fighting the umpire and play ball.

Tucson Citizen.
Far be it from our province to excitedly take up arms promiscuously against the decisions of an umpire. They are more or less sacred things and should be handled with corresponding delicacy. But reviewing the series carefully, it does look as if the locals have had more than their share of bad breaks during the series. Baseball like Arizona weather is an unerring proposition at best. It is full of close decisions and deciding circumstances. Fifty-fifty is all that any real sportsman can ask, but the consensus of opinion among Tucsonians—and Tucsonians are generally fair—is that the locals did not get the required average. In simple English, Tucson seemed to get the worst of it whenever the play was close. Therefore the reverberations of the atmosphere.

league 33 years ago, it is said, when he was a spectator at a game which was to decide the pennant. The regular umpire quit under fire and Hurst volunteered to take his place. In the final inning he called a home player out at the plate with what would have been the tying run, at the same time drawing a pistol. Not a move was made toward him. Later he was appointed umpire in the National League.

Hurst was known as a wit and for his ever-readiness to protect himself against attack. In his younger days he was an all-around athlete and a star sprinter. Recently he was engaged in the real estate business in Far Rockaway, N. Y.
